Skelton Unearthed (Annapolis)	AA. Co.	Evening Capital (Annapolis, MD.), August 13, 1901. Church Circle Annapolis. While grading Church Circle northwest side a walnut coffin with skull bones and teeth were discovered 3 feet below the surface. It is said a graveyard was once located in this vicinity. Evening Capital (Annapolis, Md.), August 20, 1901. Church Circle Annapolis. Skull exhumed on Church Circle. Mr. Moss returning from lunch observed a skull and bones lying on the sidewalk near where it had been dug up. Carefully examining the skull found an English coin embedded in the eye socket and the other tilted slightly in the other socket. On each of the coins was lettered “George III Rex.” and on the other side the English Coat of Arms surmounted with the English crown. One coin had the date of 1773 and under a magnifying glass the name Virginia is clearly seen. Believed the person died between 1773 & 1776 as English money was not used in the colonies after the Revolution. Custom was in those days to place coins in the eye sockets to keep the eyes closed. (Parole) John MacCubbin 1630-1685 Wife Eleanor Darnall MacCubbin 1650-1711		On his old plantation of "Brampton," lie presumably the remains of John Macubin, or Mackubin, the original owner of the land in 1658, and the founder of the family in Maryland. John Mackubin died in 1685. The old graveyard lies in the middle of a ploughed field on the farm now belonging to Mr. Thomas Gaither, beyond "Three Oaks," and though intact and unmolested at the last visit of the chairman of the Memorial Committee, it was untended and overgrown with trees and brambles and bore no sign of having once served as a graveyard, save the oblong holes or indentations which mark the graves of those buried there. The tenant on the place bore witness that there were old stones there within his memory, but they were carried away and used in the foundations of some neighboring houses. Number of burials is unknown. Brampton The tract Brampton is located on the east side of the South River with Riva Road running through the center of the tract. Parole MD. Baltimore County-BA
Baltimore on Bush River (Early Baltimore Town) Land is now in Harford County	Ba. Co.	Maryland Historical Magazine Volume 1 Issue 2 (1906). Baltimore on Bush River. Early Baltimore County Courthouse. In 1686 a tract of land conveyed by William Osborne to James Phillips is described in the land records as beginning on Bush River at a point " a little beyond the court house and running with the court land " a certain distance and then running west to the river. Hon. Charles W. Michael in a paper recently read before the Historical Society of Harford County, has, I think, in a satisfactory manner established the fact that the site of this first court house was, as the tradition has always placed it, on a tract of land called Common Garden, lying on the east side of Bush River. This tract was granted to William Osborne by patent in 1678 (though he owned most of it some years earlier), and the site located by Mr. Michael is on that part of it which is included in the farm now called " Old Baltimore," belonging to Mr. James L. Richardson. All trace of Baltimore on the Bush disappeared many years ago. Its site was preserved only by tradition as far back as 1773. In the deposition of Col. John Hall, then seventy-two years old, taken that year in a suit in the Provincial Court by another James Phillips against another William Osborne, he states that he knew a place in Bush River Neck, called the " Old Plantation," where Col. James Phillips formerly lived, and where the burying-ground of the Phillips family was still kept up, and that he always understood that the " Old Plantation " was where the town on Bush River was formerly laid out. Land Office T. B. H. 2-246. The Rev. Dr. Leakin and I visited the traditional site not long ago, and at about a quarter of a mile northward of the particular parcel of land on which Mr. Michael places the court house, and on the farm now called Old Baltimore, we found a burying-ground of the Phillips family. Among other tombstones there is one to James Phillips who died in 1803 at the age of sixty-two. The stone bearing the earliest date of those now there is the one to William Pitt Phillips, who died in 1791, but, in the absence of all evidence of any other burying ground of the Phillips family, it may be fairly assumed that this is the one referred to by Col. Hall, and that it still marks the tract on which the first Baltimore town stood two centuries ago. The Aegis & Intelligencer (Bel Air, MD.) 30 June 1882. Article on Old Baltimore. Burial ground near but the remains seem to have been removed. A solitary grave that appears is covered with a marble slab and overgrown with moss. The epitaph reads “To the memory James Phillips and Martha his wife”.

Jonathan Hanson was buried in the family graveyard which lay at and below the intersection of Lafayette and Charles Street. Baltimore County Deed T. K. No. 238, at folio 270 articles of agreement between Hugh W. Evans and Joseph Todhunter and Thomas B. Rutter of the other part concerning the graveyard known as Rutter's on the site of the intersection of Charles Street and Lafayette Avenue. These articles are dated Nov. 4, 1834. Therein it is recited that "John Rutter, who married into the family of the aforesaid Jonathan Hanson afterwards became sole owner of that part of the said farm in which the graveyard was situated." The old graveyard known as Rutter's graveyard which was laid out by Jonathan Hanson wherein he his two wives and many of his descendants were buried. Was situated in the bed of Charles Street at and below its intersection with Townsend Street at the present Lafayette Avenue. When the opening up or extension of Charles Street was imminent the bodies interred in this private burying ground were removed to a vault in Greenmount Cemetery and the land sold to Mr. Denmead. The graveyard is described as having been laid out by Jonathan Hanson. Greenmount Cemetery, Area " E," Lots 46 and 47, vault. A large stone slab is engraved with the names of the persons who are buried beneath, and the years of their respective demises, as follows: Jonathan Hanson, 1786; Sarah, his wife; Mary his wife, 1794; Kezia, 1770; Edward, 1786; Amon, 1787; Elizabeth, 1791; Jonathan, Sarah, Hannah, 1831, their children; W. Phillips Family James Phillips 1740-1803 Wife Martha Paca Phillips 1744-1829	Ba. Co.	Maryland Historical Magazine Volume 1 Issue 2 (1906). Baltimore on Bush River. Early Baltimore County Courthouse. In 1686 a tract of land conveyed by William Osborne to James Phillips is described in the land records as beginning on Bush River at a point " a little beyond the courthouse and running with the court land " a certain distance and then running west to the river. Hon. Charles W. Michael in a paper recently read before the Historical Society of Harford County, has, I think, in a satisfactory manner established the fact that the site of this first court house was, as the tradition has always placed it, on a tract of land called Common Garden, lying on the east side of Bush River. This tract was granted to William Osborne by patent in 1678 (though he owned most of it some years earlier), and the site located by Mr. Michael is on that part of it which is included in the farm now called " Old Baltimore," belonging to Mr. James L. Richardson. All trace of Baltimore on the Bush disappeared many years ago. Its site was preserved only by tradition as far back as 1773. In the deposition of Col. John Hall, then seventy-two years old, taken that year in a suit in the Provincial Court by another James Phillips against another William Osborne, he states that he knew a place in Bush River Neck, called the " Old Plantation," where Col. James Phillips formerly lived, and where the burying-ground of the Phillips family was still kept up, and that he always understood that the " Old Plantation " was where the town on Bush River was formerly laid out. Land Office T. B. H. 2-246. The Rev. Dr. Leakin and I visited the traditional site not long ago, and at about a quarter of a mile northward of the particular parcel of land on which Mr. Michael places the court house, and on the farm now called Old Baltimore, we found a burying-ground of the Phillips family. Among other tombstones there is one to James Phillips ; who died in 1803, at the age of sixty-two. The stone bearing the earliest date of those now there is the one to William Pitt Phillips, who died in 1791, but, in the absence of all evidence of any other burying ground of the Phillips family, it may be fairly assumed that this is the one referred to by Col. Hall, and that it still marks the tract on which the first Baltimore town stood two centuries ago. The Aegis & Intelligencer (Bel Air, MD.) 30 June 1882. Article on Old Baltimore. Burial ground near but the remains seem to have been removed. A solitary grave that appears is covered with a marble slab and overgrown with moss. The epitaph reads “To the memory James Phillips and Martha his wife”. Martha Phillips was the daughter John & Elizabeth Paca. Wife Elizabeth Piper Strawbridge 1735-1791 Note Elizabeth Strawbridge is not shown on the obelisk of Robert Strawbridge		Mt. Olivet Cemetery. On our first visit we found the ground thoroughly covered with young trees and briars that it was almost impossible to reach the exact spot. Just between the graves and covering them fully a very large poplar tree has grown up. The Baltimore County Union (Towsontown, MD.) 10 November 1866. Article states "On Thursday last the remains of Strawbridge were removed from the farm of Mr. Lee to Mt. Olivet in Baltimore. They had reposed there since 1781 when Mr. Wheeler owned the farm. A large poplar tree has grown up over his grave. Under this a few bones were found. We were shown the bones as they passed the skull & thigh bones along with some arm bones. We are sorry to say there is doubt that these are the remains of Mr. Strawbridge. Reports have always indicated they reposed beneath the large poplar tree which they were dug but there are numbers of old persons in the neighborhood who positively assert that the old patriarch was buried some distance from this tree". The Baltimore County Union (Towsontown, MD.) 24 November 1888 Robert Strawbridge. Article states "A few years ago the bones of Mr. Strawbridge were taken up on the farm then owned by Daniel Lee and reinterred at Mt. Olivet. Miss Wheeler a descendant of the owner when Mr. Strawbridge was buried and opposed the removal of the remains but could not prevent it. She is the only one who had definite knowledge of the exact location and she declined to state where it was. A few days after the removal of the bones Miss Wheeler went out to Mr. Lees and visited the burial lot. She said the remains that were taken up were not those of Mr. Strawbridge. The grave opened was not near the spot where he was interred. She took great delight in knowing the remains of the great preacher still rested where her ancestors laid them to rest a century before" The Baltimore County Union (Towsontown, Md.) 31 May 1902 Methodist Pilgrimage. "A visit to the original burial place of Robert Strawbridge was in the family graveyard of John Wheeler who owned the property at that time. Daniel Lee purchased the land from the Wheeler estate and later purchased by James Boyce which now constitutes part of Kalima Park. The dwelling house occupied by the Wheeler family was enlarged by Daniel Lee and was destroyed by fire several years ago which nothing remains where it stood except a giant walnut tree that grew in front of it. All of the outbuildings have also been removed The graveyard which is located on a hillside several yards south where the dwelling stood which doubtless lie the remains of many persons is overgrown with bushes and weeds. The Baltimore County Union (Towsontown, MD.) 16 May 1908 Strawbridge Tree. "There is a strong possibility that the walnut tree now standing on a portion of the late James Boyce estate near Ruxton where the funeral of Robert Strawbridge took place will come into the possession of the Methodist Historical Society of Maryland. Mr. Strawbridge in 1781 while visiting with his friend Joseph Wheeler who owned the property was taken suddenly sick and died a few days later. Due to the large number of people attending, the funeral was held outdoors under the tree that stood in the yard near the northwest corner of the dwelling. The remains were interred in the Wheeler graveyard located several hundred yards behind the house. What Information Is True 1. Was Robert Strawbridge buried in the Wheeler family graveyard or at some other spot on the farm? 2. No mention of where Elizabeth Piper Strawbridge is buried or where she lived after the death of Robert Strawbridge. Land History William Wheeler obtained the land (Hooker Prosperity 114 Acres) by patent in 1706 (Ba. Co. Patent # PL 2-48). William Wheeler dies in 1738 (Ba. Co. Will 4-204) and he leaves the land to his sons Thomas & Joseph Wheeler. In 1798 Thomas Wheeler deeds his part to his brother Joseph Wheeler (Ba. Co. Deed WG 56-384). Joseph Wheeler Sr. dies in 1822 (Ba. Co. Will 13-153) and leaves the land to his wife Sarah Wheeler and upon her death the land is to be sold. In 1849 Joseph Wheeler Jr. deeds the land to Daniel Lee (Ba. Co. Deed EAH 69 -247) except ½ acre for a family graveyard.

Indian Burial Ground	Ca. Co.	There seems to have been some Indians along the Hog Creek branch. One tribe went far up the branch and remains of their camp and medicine pit were found only a few years ago. Others lived near Blairtown, for we know they had a large burying ground there and their caves have been found along the banks. Still others lived near what is now the Hog Creek Mill dam. When the dam was being rebuilt several things which the Indians had buried were dug from the banks. Blairtown referred to above was clearly a settlement of slave belonging to Charles Blair about 1790. The site of this settlement was just below Hog Creek branch on the road leading from Harmony to Smithson. In 1825 much of the land in this neighborhood was purchased from the heirs of Blair by Short A. Willis, the father of Col. A. J. Willis, who died at Williston a few years ago. Robert Garrett Sanatorium (Mt. Airy)	Cr. Co.	"Serving the Children" Carroll County Times article for 23 September 2007 Mary Ann Ashcraft" In the summer of 1887 Robert Garrett, then president of the B&O Railroad, bought 47 acres from several local residents for roughly $8,000 with the intention of building a sanatorium where sick indigent children from Baltimore could escape to a healthier environment each summer. While there may have been only five buildings completed by 1888, eventually there were many more that spread between Mt. Airy's North Main Street and Buffalo Road. In February 1923 the hospital in the city was closed but a general dispensary for children continued in operation. Sewell Family	Ce. Co.	The Cecil Whig (Elkton, MD.) 2 February 1907. The old Sewell family burial vault at Holly Hall is one people often inquire about, but it has been lost to time and development. Located near the early 19th century mansion, it was on a grass-covered hill overlooking the Elk River, one county newspaper reported in 1898. At one time this was a peaceful spot, but today traffic whirls past on Bridge Street while parking lots, fast-food places, and stores have crowded in from all sides, covering most of the ground. Nothing remains to mark the family graveyard. The Sewall family vault that was located at Holly Hall, Elkton, Cecil County, Maryland, is the last known location of the remains of James Sewall, his wife and other members of his family. Unfortunately, the family vault on what was once part of the Holly Hall estate has been lost to development, and whether or not the remains of James Sewall were preserved and moved is unknown at this time. 39.60227, -75.82782 https://www.loc.gov/resource/sn83016348/1907-02-02/ed-1/?sp=2&q=FAMILY+CEMETERY&r=0.032,0.961,0.329,0.127,0 https://www.findagrave.com/cemetery/2463851/sewell-family-vault? https://www.findagrave.com/memorial/167390171/james-sewall

Slave/Colored Burial Ground Ignatius (Louis) Colbert D. 1838 Age 104 Wife ?. Colbert D. 1831 Age 60	Fr. Co.	Catoctin Clarion (Mechanicstown, MD.) 28 December 1887. Clairvaux Farm near Mount Saint Marys College Emmitsburg. This is the site of the William Elder Graveyard. When a new owner of the land obtained it around 1870 it was named "Clairvaux" and a new house was built which became a resort. The house was destroyed by fire in the 1970's and never rebuilt. According to the article there were two graveyards here one for the Elders and the other for colored people. The coloreds were lately taken up and reinterred in the spot of the whites for ease of land care. One man 107 years old whose bones were the most perfect of all. The rest found little could be found except a skull and a few larger bones. Historic Graves of Maryland and the District of Columbia-Helen W. Ridgely 1908 list the names and dates. Burial Location Lemuel & Rachel W. Griffith

Lemuel Griffith was the son of Philomen & Eleanor Griffith. 1866 Frederick County Equity Record TG 1-624 states "Lemuel Griffith died in 1855 and was of bad character". Rachel W. Griffith died 1861 (Fr. Co. Will APK 1-35). Both are believed to be buried in the Philomen Griffith burial ground with no headstones. No information located on Find a Grave or Names In Stone.

Philomen Griffith Burial Location Problem

Conflicting information found on burial location. The 1838 Frederick County Administration Account shows payment for gravestones. Holdcraft records Col. Philomen Griffith in his fieldnotes.

Find a Grave shows Maj. Philomen Griffith (D. 1838) at Laytonsville United Methodist Cemetery in Montgomery County Maryland with a 3-sided obelisk marked In Memory of Maj. Philomen Griffith 1756-1838. Also for his father Capt. Henry Griffith and his brother Capt. Samuel Griffith (erected 1902 by Romulus R. Griffith). Each obelisk gives information for their service in the Revolutionary War. Was the obelisk erected for Philomen Griffith to his memory only? Is his actual burial at New Market Methodist Cemetery in Frederick County?

North side of Old Morgantown Road about 1000’ east of Frantz Road shows a cemetery symbol. The parcel is listed 223 or 225. Current property tax maps do not show the cemetery. Tracing the owners it is possible this is the John Rutan Graveyard. In 1837 John Rutan makes his will and dies in 1838 with wife Catherine listed. (Al. Co. Will Vol. A-434). In 1840 (Al. Co. Deed BB-469) the heirs of John Rutan sell part of the tract Friends Fortune and Military Lots 3284-3286. Deed states “Military Lots were patented to John Rutan in 1779”.

		This may be in error since Military Lots weren't laid out until 1787. This deed matches up to the location of the cemetery on the 1977 tax map. The deed states "Land was sold to John Slicer". The grave of John Slicer is located in Grantsville per Find a Grave. Another clue is listed on Find a Grave for Mary Rutan Hoye. Daughter of John Rutan (1751–1838) and Catherine Jones Rutan (1750–1834). The Rutan family of Huguenot origin were early settlers in the "New Jersey" colony near Buffalo Run. Baltimore on Bush River (Early Baltimore Town) Land is now in Harford County	Ha. Co.	Maryland Historical Magazine Volume 1 Issue 2 (1906). Baltimore on Bush River. Early Baltimore County Courthouse. In 1686 a tract of land conveyed by William Osborne to James Phillips is described in the land records as beginning on Bush River at a point " a little beyond the court house and running with the court land " a certain distance and then running west to the river. Hon. Charles W. Michael in a paper recently read before the Historical Society of Harford County, has, I think, in a satisfactory manner established the fact that the site of this first court house was, as the tradition has always placed it, on a tract of land called Common Garden, lying on the east side of Bush River. This tract was granted to William Osborne by patent in 1678 (though he owned most of it some years earlier), and the site located by Mr. Michael is on that part of it which is included in the farm now called " Old Baltimore," belonging to Mr. James L. Richardson. All trace of Baltimore on the Bush disappeared many years ago. Its site was preserved only by tradition as far back as 1773. In the deposition of Col. John Hall, then seventy-two years old, taken that year in a suit in the Provincial Court by another James Phillips against another William Osborne, he states that he knew a place in Bush River Neck, called the " Old Plantation," where Col. James Phillips formerly lived, and where the burying-ground of the Phillips family was still kept up, and that he always understood that the " Old Plantation " was where the town on Bush River was formerly laid out. Land Office T. B. H. 2-246. The Rev. Dr. Leakin and I visited the traditional site not long ago, and at about a quarter of a mile northward of the particular parcel of land on which Mr. Michael places the court house, and on the farm now called Old Baltimore, we found a burying-ground of the Phillips family. Among other tombstones there is one to James Phillips who died in 1803 at the age of sixty-two. The stone bearing the earliest date of those now there is the one to William Pitt Phillips, who died in 1791, but, in the absence of all evidence of any other burying ground of the Phillips family, it may be fairly assumed that this is the one referred to by Col. Hall, and that it still marks the tract on which the first Baltimore town stood two centuries ago.

Sabrit Cecil obtains additional land and obtains a new patent in 1775 (Bealls Contest PG. Co. Patented #247) for 246.25 Acres. In 1810 Sabrit Cecil dies (Mo. Co. Will G-147) and leaves his wife Mary Cecil the use of my estate. Leaves the tract Kilmanark to his children Samuel & Mary Cecil and part of Bealls Contest to children John & Mary Cecil. 1847 Mo. Co. Deed STS 3-45 gives background on the land after the death of Sabrit Cecil. Deed states "Division of the land of Samuel, John and Mary Cecil who died seized. The late James Davis became the purchaser of the land". The heirs of James Davis deed the land to his children Hezekiah, Benjamin and Mary Davis. In 1858 Hezekiah Davis dies and in 1863 Benjamin Davis sells the land (Kilamanark) to John Myers (Mo. Co. Deed JGH 9-68) except ¼ acre for a graveyard. Greenbelt (Potters Field)	PG. Co.	Greenbelt News Review 10 Nov. 1960. Originally an old burial ground the land was purchased by the city of Greenbelt as a "Potters Field" when a place of interment was needed for a Greenbelt infant. Article states "Land was located on Edmontson Road near the pistol range. Site is poorly maintained and has had no burials for several year. At present there are possibly eleven graves occupied in the new section. Land was purchased by ordinance on 8 June 1942 with lots ranging from 20 to 30 dollars. Site is poorly maintained and is in bad condition". When I-495 was constructed around 1960 Edmonston Road was cut off. The graveyard now known as "Greenbelt Cemetery" is located at the present-day intersection of Ivy Lane & Edmonston Road. Wainwright/Brittingham Family	So. Co.	Brittingham Farm Cemetery Relocation Princess Anne, Somerset County, Maryland. Report states "Tax Parcel 0015-0005-0012 s commercial development was planned on a portion of this parcel, Maryland State Highway Administration concurrently planned an extension of UMES Boulevard, to be constructed on the west side of US Route 13. A cemetery was indicated on a 1957 plat map which seemed to be within the planned roadwork." Twelve graves were recorded, photographed, and excavated following standard archaeological recovery methods. The cemetery was active for over thirty years, from at least the time of Jesse H. Wainwright's burial circa 1822 through circa 1857 when James F. Brittingham was buried within the family plot. The remains of the individuals recovered from the Brittingham Farm cemetery were respectfully placed with their personal effects into corrugated plastic boxes and sealed. A religious ceremony was performed graveside by Presbyterian Reverend David Parke before reinterment at Beechwood Memorial Cemetery in Princess Anne, Maryland. A marker will be placed at the gravesite. The marker will read "Here lie the earthly remains of James F. Brittingham (1797 - 1857), his wife Rosanna A. W. Wainwright (1801 - 1851), and Rosanna's first husband Jesse Wainwright (1785 - 1822). These and nine other unidentified individuals were reinterred here from the Brittingham Farm located along the west side of Ocean Highway near Princess Anne. Surratt Mary Jenkins Surratt 1823-1865 (Lincoln Conspirator)	D.C.	Montgomery County Sentinel March 3, 1882. Article on President Lincoln conspirator Mary Surratt who was buried in the arsenal grounds with the other conspirators. In 1869 the bodies were surrendered to relatives and friends with Mrs. Surratt moved to Mt. Olivet. Mr. P. Duffy (Sexton) of Mt. Olivet Cemetery at that time after the body of Mary Surratt was moved here was for several years frequently called on to point out the spot Mrs. Surratt was buried. About 1875 Gustavas Craney (stone cutter) was engaged in putting up some headstones in the grounds. Mr. Duffy called his attention to the want of a stone to mark Mrs. Surratts grave. Mr. Craney agreed to cut the letters on the stone if Mr. Duffy procured one. Mr. Craney cut the name “Mrs. Surratt” upon it. Mt.
